

READING, FOUNDATION & TECHNOLOGY

Educational Technology (Online)

This interdisciplinary program is designed to accommodate individuals with various areas of professional interest in the field of educational technology and instructional design. Candidates include those interested in becoming technology coaches, specialists, or technology coordinators; school library media specialists; classroom teachers who wish to improve their technology skills; and individuals from higher education, medical, corporate, or other professional fields.

Literacy (Online)

The purpose of this program is to furnish students with the necessary knowledge and skills to be competent teachers of literacy from preschool through college. Also, persons completing the program will be qualified to supervise reading/literacy programs and may qualify as literacy coaches. The MEd-Literacy degree results in students meeting course work requirements for the DESE Special Reading Teacher, K-12, Certification..

Master of Arts in Teaching (Online)

This program is a combined graduate degree and initial teacher certification program intended for individuals who hold at least a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college/university. This program is approved by the DESE and is intended for secondary-level and middle-level future educators. The MAT program provides the opportunity for multiple content area certifications and includes extensive site-based clinical experiences in area schools making use of the students' previous coursework and life/work experiences.

Master of Arts in Teaching & Learning

The MATL degree engages practicing teachers in serious, sustained, and quality discussions about teaching, learning, and the public schools. The degree is based on what teachers want: ideas, tools, strategies, knowledge, and understandings that make them better at what they do; space to work on their craft individually; and, opportunities to talk with colleagues about what is really important in their particular classrooms, schools, and communities.

Teacher Leadership Education Specialist

The SETL degree is designed for teachers who desire to take on leading roles in making decisions in their schools and school districts, in and out of the classroom—teachers who prove themselves to be excellent teachers, committed professionals, and supportive colleagues. The degree is for students who possess a Master's degree in an education-related field—for example, a Master's degree in literacy or educational technology, or a Master's degree in a subject or grade-level field.
